Robin Hood, from Chesterfield County, Holds Up a Bread

SING THE CRUCIFIXION

Elaborate Musical Program Arranged for To-Night-In Police Circles-Personals.

Manchester Bureau, Times-Dispatch, No. 1102 Hull Street.

Suddenly turning highwayman, Jim Clay, who had imbibed too freely, con cealed nimself behind a telegraph pole, from which he peered dramatically from time to time, and awaited the coming of his next victim, who happened along in the person of a bread wagon driver. Rushing out with yells resembling those of a Comanche Indian, and frightening the driver off, he selzed an empty bread tray and made heroically off; but unfortunately the astounded driver so far recovered himself as to be able to heave a brick at the fleeing Robin Hood, which caught him squarely between the shoulders and caused him to abandon flight, drop his burden and stand howling in the street. In all probability he would have kept up the latter condition for an indefinite period but for the cry of "Cop!" which seemed to sober up the bandit, and when last seen he was making for the woods of Chesterfield.

Mr. A. B. Curtis, special officer for the Southern Rallway, walked into the police station last night with two typical hoboes, whom he had arrested on a freight train at Bon Air. The men, who gave their names as Charles Yaughn and Holly Lowry, of Danville, said that they were out of work and were on their way home. Sergeant Wright locked the men up on complaint of Mr. Curtis, and they will be tried hefore Squire Cheatham Friday morning.

William Boyd, a glass-blower, and Lesile Robinson, both of whom had indulged too freely of the clixir of life, engaged in a street fight last night, and after vainly pawing the air for a long period, in which time neither combatant was in the smallest degree damaged, they were arrested.

Both gave bail and will appear before His Honor this morning.

and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures. It is strictly nonalcoholic, non-secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming

SOUTHERN MAKING FIGHT

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

BLACKSBURG, VA., April 15.—The State Board of Agriculture met here this morning at 10:30, with all the members present. The board rescinded the action taken at its July meeting and put in force from date the law adopted by the last Legislature.
Officers elected for the year are:
President, J. W. Churchman, of Augusta: Secretary, B. D. Adams, of Charlotte; Auditing Committee, Messrs,
Heater, Beverly and Arvine: Horticultural Board, Messrs. Goodwin, Heater and Churchman.
The board adjourned to meet in Richmond during the meeting of the State Farmers' Institute in August. The Koiner faction, so called, won in the election of officers by a vote of six to five. The board was not in session two hours, the members spending the rest of the day inspecting the institute farm. While they would have nothing to say on the subject, the acceptance by Messrs. Beverly and Heater of positions on the committee indicate that their resignations from the board are not likely.

William I. Barksdale.

[Bréclait of The Times-Dispatch.]

AMELIA, VA., April 15.—The burial of Mr. William I. Barksdale yesterday removes a valued citizen, a connecting link to the times that are gone, and one who was loved and respected by all who knew him. Mr. Barksdale was the son of Mr. Robert I. Barksdale was the son of Mr. Robert I. Barksdale of this county, and the grandson of Mr. William I. Barksdale, and on the maternal side of Judge John Robertson, of Campbell county. He was educated at Hanover Academy and the Virginia Military Institute, and followed the profession of civil engineer till his health falled. Some years ago he suffered a stroke of paralysis. He spent the last years of his life at the old family home, known as Clay Hill. He was truly a Virginian of the old style, and his polished and gentlemanly manners never forsook him. For many years he had been a member of the Episcopal Church.

Hy his request, made some time before, the old servants of the family, all of whom loved and respected him, acted as pall-bearers. He was standing and talking in the yard of a neighbor about 130 o'clock Monday, when he suddenly fell and enpired at once. The interment was made at Clay Hill, and the services were conducted by Rector V. Wren, of Raleigh Parish.

Mr. Barksdale leaves a sister Mrs. Richard M. Bolling, of Richmond, Va., and a brother, Mr. Robert I. Barksdale, of Elkhorn, W. Va., also a half-brother, Mr. Stanley Barksdale, and several half-sisters living in Washington. D. C., and his end is mourned by many true admirers and friends.
